

Box Klever – Website Privacy Policy

1 General Usage

Box Klever Limited collates and analyses data about site traffic, downloads and other commercial information. We do not disclose this information to any third parties and use this information to evaluate the performance of our website and marketing activities and aid in the development of future marketing activities.

2 Website Tracking

Box Klever Limited uses a variety of tracking techniques whilst visitors are on our website to track general usage data such as internet protocol addresses, browser type, internet service provider, country of visitor, referring/exit pages, platform type, date/time/duration of visit, and number of clicks. This information is used to assess website performance and site visitors are not personally identified via this data.

3 Download & Information Requests

When you submit information to request a download or similar feature we may use the information provided to make contact with you regarding our services via telephone, email or direct mail. You may request removal from our records at any time.

4 Email Marketing

We send occasional email newsletters and updates to contacts on our in-house contact database. Each email offers a simple method to opt-out should you no longer wish to receive communication in this format.